Hope & Braim

A recently refurbished terraced house positioned within easy reach of Whitby's historic harbour, presented to a good standard throughout and offering versatile accommodation that will appeal to a range of buyers, whether seeking a well-appointed town residence, a holiday let, or a property with potential for dual occupancy. The refurbishment has been carried out with care, and the quality of finish is evident throughout. At the heart of the main living space is an open-plan lounge and dining room, centred on a feature fireplace that provides both warmth and a focal point to the room. The adjoining galley kitchen is fitted with integrated appliances and makes efficient use of the available space. Two double bedrooms and a bathroom occupy the upper floors of the main house, providing comfortable and well-proportioned sleeping accommodation. A further double bedroom with en-suite facilities is arranged at lower ground floor level, accessed via its own separate entrance from the gated front yard, a configuration that lends itself naturally to use as an annexe, a lettable unit, or independent guest accommodation. Stepped access leads up from the yard to the principal entrance of the house above, with the gated enclosure providing a degree of privacy and a defined arrival point appropriate to a property of this character. Electric heating and double glazing are installed throughout, ensuring the house is efficient and comfortable across the seasons. Whitby's harbour quarter is among the most sought-after addresses in the town, with strong appeal to both permanent residents and the short-term holiday market. This refurbished property, with its flexible layout and excellent finish, is well-placed to perform in either capacity.
